You want to work here

Creative and digital people in Birmingham have got a new address. Hidden behind a meticulously restored Victorian Gothic façade sit 60,000 square feet of slick new studio offices, hooked up with the latest tech and flooded with daylight. Already home to the Ikon gallery, Fazeley Studios is designed to house creative minds who want to work in the new way.

Amongst its grand treasure filled halls and glamorous public spaces, tenants will find all manner of dot com goodies. A yoga studio, a gym, a billiard room, showers, bike park, Xbox arena, laid-back brasserie lounge – all, of course, bathed in wifi. And for the unreconstructed amongst us there is ample secure parking and all the usual mod-cons.

The office rebooted for creative and digital people. There is nowhere else like this.
